

10/089937

- 14 -

ABSTRACT

In a communication device, electric circuits other than an antenna are enclosed in a shielding member made of a material that shuts off radio waves, and the antenna is enclosed by disposing in front thereof a radio wave absorbing 5 member that attenuates radio waves in a predetermined frequency band. Thus, unnecessary electromagnetic emission is alleviated while satisfactory communication quality is secured.

2025 RELEASE UNDER E.O. 14176